Markus Majowski

ACTOR · AUTHOR · ACTING TEACHER

Photo: Chris Gonz

Markus Majowski, born in Berlin in 1964, is an actor, director, producer, author and acting teacher. He became known through the Sat.1 comedy “Die dreisten Drei”, the ZDF series “Der letzte Zeuge” and the feature film “Sieben Zwerge – Männer allein im Wald”. For around 40 years he has been on stage, among others at the Hamburger Kammerspiele, the Bad Hersfeld Festival and the Komödie Düsseldorf. In 2005 he received the German Comedy Award together with the ensemble of “Sieben Zwerge”. In 2025 his first novel “Maria & Yasemin – Die Feuer von Teheran”, written with Nicolai Tegeler, was published. In 2026 he plays the chocolatier Henri Schuhmann in “Ein Herz aus Schokolade” at the Comödie Dresden and tours Germany as the millionaire Hardenberg in “Die fetten Jahre sind vorbei”. He trained at the Schauspielschule Berlin with Else Bongers and graduated in 1987, followed by his first engagement. From 1997 to 2007 he was the face of Deutsche Telekom as T. Neumann. Since 2022 he has appeared in “Jedermann”, first alternating as Death, the Thin Cousin, the Devil, the Announcer and the Poor Neighbour, and since 2026 permanently as the Thin Cousin. Since 2012 he has written the blog “unbequemes”, and since 2023 he has hosted the podcast “Markus Majowski – Der Business-Talk”. He is an ambassador of the German Children's Fund, supports the Bad Salzungen Hospice Centre and passes on his experience as an acting teacher. Markus Majowski lives in Berlin.

1461 characters · As of November 2026

markus-majowski.de · majowski-flourish@t-online.de · Press and TV show formats: Reineke-Partner GmbH, info@reineke-partner.de, +49 40 726 99 159 · Acting, theatre & film: I LIKE STORIES GmbH, info@ilikestories.berlin